HOPE FOR THE BULLIED

EXCERPT FROM
KEYS FOR LIVING LIBRARY
Dear Friend,

I was born in Melbourne, Australia without arms and legs even though three sonograms had never revealed any complications. Growing up, it wasn’t easy. Throughout my childhood, I struggled with depression and loneliness. I even questioned the purpose of my life and tried to take my own life when I was ten years old.

But Jesus met me in my pain and I decided to give my life to him. Since then, I’ve travelled to 74 countries to share my story with millions of people just like yourself, from students and young people to business professionals and even world leaders. I want to share a special message with the world based on my own story and encounter with Jesus: there is hope.

I may not know what you’re struggling with today. But like I’ve seen in my own life, the Bible teaches us that Jesus is not only present in our pain, but that He is the answer to our heaviest struggles. Jesus says, “I have told you these things, so that in me you may have peace. In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world” (John 16:33).

I’m here to tell you today that you are special, you are loved, and that God does have an amazing plan for your life. He will never leave or forsake you. And if God can use me, a man without arms and legs, to be His hands and feet, then He will certainly use any willing heart. Throughout my life I’ve always held onto a special verse that says: “For I know the plans I have for you,” declares the Lord, “plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future” (Jeremiah 29:11). If we give our lives to him, he promises to give us hope and a future. Now that is amazing!

Here at Life Without Limbs, we love you and we’re praying for you. We’re here to be your Champions and to point you back to the true Champion: Jesus. We pray that these resources will help you through whatever challenges you may be facing and bring hope for the way forward.

Thank you and God Bless,

Nick Vujicic and the Life Without Limbs Team
In the classroom and on social media, from the playground to the nursing home—bullying happens everywhere. Bullying situations typically involve at least three people: the bully, the bullied, and the bystander. God’s Word speaks to all three, providing guidance to prevent, stop, intervene, and respond to this destructive issue.

“Your word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path.”

(Psalm 119:105)

God sees your pain and cares about your suffering.

“You have seen my troubles, and you care about the anguish of my soul” (Psalm 31:7 NLT).

God understands the pain of being bullied, harassed, and abused.

“He [Jesus] was despised and rejected by mankind, a man of suffering, and familiar with pain. Like one from whom people hide their faces he was despised, and we held him in low esteem” (Isaiah 53:3).

God offers healing to those who have been hurt by bullying.

“He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds” (Psalm 147:3).

God can redeem your painful experiences and use them for His good purposes.

“You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done, the saving of many lives” (Genesis 50:20).

God calls for bullies to change their abusive, violent ways.

“Give up your violence and oppression and do what is just and right” (Ezekiel 45:9).

God offers complete forgiveness to those who turn to Him in repentance.

“If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness” (1 John 1:9).

God wants bystanders to intervene and help those who are being hurt by bullies.

“Do not withhold good from those to whom it is due, when it is in your power to act” (Proverbs 3:27).

God does not want bystanders to turn a blind eye to those being bullied and treated unjustly.

“Rescue those being led away to death; hold back those staggering toward slaughter. If you say, ‘But we knew nothing about this,’ does not he who weighs the heart perceive it? Does not he who guards your life know it? Will he not repay everyone according to what they have done?” (Proverbs 24:11–12).
God will hold each person accountable for their actions, including bullies and bystanders.

“Nothing in all creation is hidden from God’s sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account” (Hebrews 4:13).

God wants you to defend and stand up for the oppressed, weak, and bullied.

“Defend the weak and the fatherless; uphold the cause of the poor and the oppressed” (Psalm 82:3).
What Is God’s Heart on Abuse?

God is a God of love, and He created us for loving relationships. Abusive relationships run contrary to His design and His plan for healthy, flourishing relationships. To those who treat others abusively, God sees their actions, calls them to change, and will hold them accountable. The Bible says, “Nothing in all creation is hidden from God’s sight. Everything is uncovered and laid bare before the eyes of him to whom we must give account” (Hebrews 4:13).

To those who have been mistreated, the Lord is a refuge. He extends His healing hand and even uses the pain of abuse to accomplish His good purposes.

“You intended to harm me, but God intended it for good to accomplish what is now being done, the saving of many lives.” (Genesis 50:20)

God hears the cry of the battered and abused.
“You, Lord, hear the desire of the afflicted; you encourage them, and you listen to their cry” (Psalm 10:17).

God understands the pain of abuse.
“He [Jesus] was despised and rejected by mankind, a man of suffering, and familiar with pain” (Isaiah 53:3).

God strengthens and upholds the victim of abuse.
“Do not fear, for I am with you; do not be dismayed, for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand” (Isaiah 41:10).

God confirms the abuse victim’s value and worth.
“Are not five sparrows sold for two pennies? Yet not one of them is forgotten by God. Indeed, the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Don’t be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows” (Luke 12:6–7).

God gives hope to victims of abuse.
“For I know the plans I have for you,’ declares the Lord, ‘plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future’” (Jeremiah 29:11).

God offers healing from the pain of abuse.
“He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds” (Psalm 147:3).
God wants to be a refuge to the abused and help them process their emotions and experiences with Him.
“Trust in him at all times, you people; pour out your hearts to him, for God is our refuge” (Psalm 62:8).

God wants to transform victims’ hearts and minds with His Word.
“Let God transform you into a new person by changing the way you think. Then you will learn to know God’s will for you, which is good and pleasing and perfect” (Romans 12:2 NLT).

God wants those who’ve been abused to establish boundaries in their life and relationships.
“Guard your heart above all else, for it determines the course of your life” (Proverbs 4:23 NLT).

God wants abuse victims to help others who have experienced abusive treatment.
“The Father of compassion and the God of all comfort . . . comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God” (2 Corinthians 1:3–4).

God calls for abusive people to change.
“Give up your violence and oppression and do what is just and right” (Ezekiel 45:9).

God will one day end all abuse and pain.
“He will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there will be no more death or sorrow or crying or pain. All these things are gone forever” (Revelation 21:4 NLT).

Key Verse to Memorize

Help and healing ultimately come from God. He knows your pain. He sees your grief. He is not indifferent toward you, and He does not ignore you. You can trust Him. You can place your past, present, and future in His hands.

“You, God, see the trouble of the afflicted; you consider their grief and take it in hand. The victims commit themselves to you; you are the helper of the fatherless.” (Psalm 10:14)
Stories abound in Scripture about people who were mistreated, maligned, attacked, assaulted . . . abused. In the book of Lamentations, the prophet Jeremiah reflects on his suffering and the suffering of Israel after being attacked by an enemy nation. Jeremiah’s response to the attack mirrors the response of many to harsh treatment: anger, confusion, despair, and bitterness.

Jeremiah shows us that as God’s people bring their emotions to Him and look to Him in the midst of their suffering, they find hope. Your story of abuse may differ in many ways, but the same hope is available to you.

“Surely there is a future, and your hope will not be cut off.”

(Proverbs 23:18 esv)

Lamentations 3:19–26 (NLT)

“19 The thought of my suffering . . . is bitter beyond words.
20 I will never forget this awful time, as I grieve over my loss.
21 Yet I still dare to hope when I remember this:
22 The faithful love of the Lord never ends!
    His mercies never cease.
23 Great is his faithfulness;
    his mercies begin afresh each morning.
24 I say to myself, ‘The Lord is my inheritance; therefore, I will hope in him!’
25 The Lord is good to those who depend on him, to those who search for him.
26 So it is good to wait quietly
    for salvation from the Lord.’”

What’s been said to you and what’s been done to you may have left you with a broken heart, broken dreams, and broken relationships. You might feel trapped in an abusive relationship or ensnared by fear, anger, and bitterness.

The idea of finding healing and freedom may be difficult to grasp, but it is all possible with God’s help. He has a plan for you to help you overcome the past, find joy in the present, and give you a bright future. Even in the darkness of abuse, He can shine a light into your life that makes it possible for you to move forward with hope.

“You, Lord, keep my lamp burning; my God turns my darkness into light.”

(Psalm 18:28)

To overcome the abuse I’ve experienced and become the person God created me to be, I will . . .

Look to the Lord

The Bible says, “I cry aloud to God, aloud to God, and he will hear me” (Psalm 77:1 ESV). Change, healing, and freedom all begin with God. Abuse can distort my view of God but I know God loves me. He is for me, and He is with me. He will help me rise above abuse because He desires to heal me and set me free. I can trust Him. Scripture says, “The Lord is my strength and shield. I trust him with all my heart. He helps me, and my heart is filled with joy” (Psalm 28:7 NLT).

— I will read God’s Word and pray regularly.
— I will get involved in a local church to grow in my relationship with God.

“Look to the Lord and his strength; seek his face always” (1 Chronicles 16:11).

Process my emotions

The pain of abuse can create heavy emotions. Some emotions like hurt and anger linger, are ever-present and quick to surface. Though hidden, these emotions still affect my well-being and relationships. I often struggle to process my emotions and express them freely. But confronting these painful emotions is an important step toward healing. I will give myself time to grieve and process the pain.

— I will be honest about the pain and emotions I’ve felt as a result of the abuse I experienced.
— I will talk with God and trustworthy people to process my thoughts and emotions, as well as journal my experience.

“In my distress I called to the Lord; I cried to my God for help” (Psalm 18:6).
Find support
Healing doesn’t happen in isolation. God often uses friends, family, and counselors to comfort us and to help us heal and grow. God created us to be in loving, flourishing relationships. Therefore, it’s important for me to find and develop healthy friendships and other relationships where I can be supported and loved.

— I will seek the help of a counselor, if needed, to help me heal, grow, and develop healthy relationships.
— I will develop a support system with my family, friends, and local church, as well as look into online and community resources for further support.

“Two people are better off than one, for they can help each other succeed. If one person falls, the other can reach out and help” (Ecclesiastes 4:9–10 NLT).

Replace lies with truth
Verbal and emotional abuse often leads to believing lies about ourselves, our value, and our purpose. We might even believe lies about how relationships should work, whether change is possible, or even lies about God. Healing occurs when we recognize the lies and walk in the truth. God’s Word provides truth about me—my identity, my purpose, and my worth. I will begin to see myself through God’s eyes—as a precious child of God.

— I will identify the lies I believe about myself, about others, about life, and about God.
— I will look to God’s Word to replace those lies with truth.

“You will know the truth, and the truth will set you free” (John 8:32).

Set boundaries
Boundaries define what is permissible and what is not, separating what is in bounds and what is out of bounds. They are designed for my protection. In abusive relationships, boundaries are often crossed. They are either never established, or they are established but never maintained. To prevent further abuse, I must draw the line and establish boundaries.

— I will set healthy boundaries to protect myself and others from further abuse.
— I will enforce repercussions and maintain those boundaries when they are crossed.

“Above all else, guard your heart, for everything you do flows from it” (Proverbs 4:23).

Help others
One sign of healing and growth is that I can take the bad things that have happened to me and use them for good. The pain of abuse might make this difficult to believe, but God can use my painful experiences to help others. As the saying goes, “God can turn my misery into a ministry.”

— I will trust God to use me, even the pain of my past, to help others who have been impacted by abuse.
— I will look for opportunities to share my story, listen to others, and point people to the Lord.

“The Father of compassion and the God of all comfort . . . comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God” (2 Corinthians 1:3–4).
Finding Victory over Abuse: How to Replace Lies with Truth

If you’ve heard constant, cruel and condemning messages from your parents, spouse, partner, boss, or anyone close to you—it’s understandable you may have come to believe those messages over time. Perhaps you’ve come to believe that you are unworthy or unlovable, incomplete or insignificant. No matter what harsh words you’ve been told, abuse does not have the final word about you—God does. His Word speaks of His love for you and the life-changing identity you have in Christ.

Healing and transformation can occur when you begin to see yourself through God’s eyes, believing what He says about you. Therefore, it is important to identify the lies you’ve been led to believe and replace them with God’s truth.

“Teach me your way, O Lord, that I may walk in your truth.”
(Psalm 86:11)

Lie: “I am worthless and insignificant.”

Truth: You matter to God. You have God-given worth because God created you, and that worth can never be taken from you.

“For you created my inmost being; you knit me together in my mother’s womb. I praise you because I am fearfully and wonderfully made” (Psalm 139:13–14).

Lie: “No one will ever accept me.”

Truth: The Lord chose you, accepts you, and will never reject you.

“I have chosen you and have not rejected you. So do not fear, for I am with you; do not be dismayed, for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand” (Isaiah 41:9–10).

Lie: “I am unlovable.”

Truth: God loves you, and nothing can separate you from His love.

“Nothing can ever separate us from God’s love. Neither death nor life, neither angels nor demons, neither our fears for today nor our worries about tomorrow—not even the powers of hell can separate us from God’s love. No power in the sky above or in the earth below—indeed, nothing in all creation will ever be able to separate us from the love of God that is revealed in Christ Jesus our Lord” (Romans 8:38–39 NLT).

Lie: “I deserve to be abused.”

Truth: No one deserves to be abused—no one. Each person should be treated with respect as God’s image-bearer.

“Show proper respect to everyone” (1 Peter 2:17).

Lie: “There is no hope for me.”

Truth: No matter how deep the pain, with God, there is always hope.

“There is surely a future hope for you, and your hope will not be cut off” (Proverbs 23:18).
Lie: “I have no control over what happens to me.”

Truth: God has given you free will, and you do have control over the choices you make and the actions you take. “For we are each responsible for our own conduct” (Galatians 6:5 NLT).

Lie: “God doesn’t care about me.”

Truth: God cares deeply about you and wants you to come to Him with your burdens. “Give all your worries and cares to God, for he cares about you” (1 Peter 5:7 NLT).

Lie: “God is disappointed in me and wants nothing to do with me.”

Truth: God has compassion for you—He is with you and desires a close relationship with you. “The Lord is gracious and compassionate, slow to anger and rich in love. The Lord is good to all; he has compassion on all he has made. . . . The Lord is near to all who call on him” (Psalm 145:8–9, 18).

You may have been led to believe other lies. As an exercise, write them down and then look in God’s Word to discover a passage or a truth that can speak directly to that lie. God wants you to “take captive every thought to make it obedient to Christ” (2 Corinthians 10:5). Over time, as you replace the lies with God’s truth, you will be transformed by His Word.

“Do not conform to the pattern of this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind. Then you will be able to test and approve what God’s will is—his good, pleasing and perfect will.” (Romans 12:2)
How to Establish Boundaries in a Verbally Abusive Relationship

You can curtail verbal and emotional abuse by developing a plan to prevent yourself from being controlled. You cannot change another person, but you can change yourself so that the abusive tactics previously used on you are no longer effective and cease to ensnare you. As you determine the appropriate boundaries, realize that these boundaries are designed to guard your heart, mind, and emotions.

“My child, listen and be wise: Keep your heart on the right course.”
(Proverbs 23:19 nlt)

1. State clearly, in a conversation or a letter, what you are willing to accept and not accept from the abuser.
   — Communicate your position in a positive way. (Practice what you will say in advance.)
   — Do not justify yourself. Do not be apologetic, just state the boundary:
     — “I want our relationship to continue, but . . .
       • “I’m not willing to listen to your name-calling.”
       • “I’m not willing to hear your accusations about (name) any longer.”
       • “Talking negatively about the past, about you or me, or anyone else is counterproductive.”
       • “I’m not willing to be controlled by your silent treatment any longer.”
     — Keep what you say short and succinct.

     “A truly wise person uses few words; a person with understanding is even-tempered.”
     (Proverbs 17:27 nlt)

2. Announce the consequence you will enforce if the abuser violates your requests.
   — Your response should be a matter of separating yourself from the abuser.
   — You cannot change the abuser’s behavior, but you can remove yourself from frequent exposure to unacceptable behavior.
   — “I want to visit with you, but . . .
     • “If you call me a bad name again, I will leave for a period of time.”
     • “If you persist in making that accusation, I will immediately end our conversation.”
     • “If you give me the silent treatment, I will go and find someone else to talk with.”
   — Consequences are part of God’s plan.

“A man reaps what he sows.”
(Galatians 6:7)
3. Enforce the consequence every single time abuse occurs.
   — Do not bluff! The abuser needs to know that you are going to act consistently on your words.
   — Plan on being tested multiple times.
   — In your mind and heart . . .
     • Say No to manipulation.
     • Say No to pressure.
     • Say No to control.
   — You need to show that the abusive tactics are no longer effective on you.

   “Let your ‘yes’ be yes and your ‘no’ be no.”
   (James 5:12 ESV)

4. Hold your ground and absolutely do not negotiate.
   — Since verbal abusers do not use words fairly, negotiation will not work.
   — Instead of “talking out” the problem, your abuser will seek to wear you out.
   — Simply state that when the behavior stops, you look forward to a renewed relationship.
   • “I am not willing to discuss this topic any longer.”
   • “I have stated clearly what I will not accept.”
   • “When you are ready to respect my requests, let me know. I look forward to enjoying being together at that time.”
   — Keep your words brief and to the point.

   “Sin is not ended by multiplying words, but the prudent hold their tongues.”
   (Proverbs 10:19)

5. Respond when your boundary is violated—never react out of instinct or out of anger.
   — Expect your boundary to be violated . . . but don’t react.
   — Expect your boundary to be violated again . . . and again. But don’t react.
   — If you react, you will find yourself back under the control of the abuser.
   — Respond by detaching yourself from the abuser and enforcing your repercussions.

   “The end of a matter is better than its beginning, and patience is better than pride. Do not be quickly provoked in your spirit.”
   (Ecclesiastes 7:8–9)

6. Ask for support from one or two wise, objective people to help you through this process.
   — Include supporters as you analyze and identify the problem.
   — Include supporters as you determine how to articulate your plan.
   — Include supporters as you enforce the repercussions.
— Include supporters—friend, mentor, counselor—to help you through this critical period.
  • Discuss the situation with your supporters.
  • Discuss the tactics used on you.
  • Discuss the plan of action.

“In abundance of counselors there is victory.”
(Proverbs 24:6 ESV)

7. Expect manipulative maneuvers and emotional ups and downs.
— Assume that your actions will make the abuser angry.
— Allow your abuser to react without reacting yourself.
— Do not seek to placate and appease this person—it won’t work.
— Think of this time period as comparable to having surgery. It is a painful experience, but it provides hope for healing and having a new, healthy relationship.
— Remember God is with you each step of the way.

“For I am the Lord your God who takes hold of your right hand and says to you, Do not fear; I will help you.”
(Isaiah 41:13)

How to Help the Abused

Perhaps you know someone who’s been hurt by verbal and emotional abuse. You want to help but you don’t know where to start. Maybe you’ve experienced abuse and want to help others rise above the abuse in their life.

Because abuse involves pain and a range of difficult emotions, it’s important to know what to do and what not to do. Realize, the person before you may be wounded, emotionally fragile, perhaps even traumatized. The tone and tenor of your words are essential to establishing a nurturing conversation. People who have experienced abuse may ignore the severity of their situation. They may display defense mechanisms such as denying that anything is wrong, minimizing their pain, or rationalizing their abuser’s behavior.

If the abused person is open and honest about discussing the situation, realize they are displaying significant courage. Be prepared to respond with love and patience as they begin to share the secrets of their broken heart. As you seek to help others, remember that God is the source of comfort and change and you are an instrument of His comfort and love.

“God is our merciful Father and the source of all comfort. He comforts us in all our troubles so that we can comfort others. When they are troubled, we will be able to give them the same comfort God has given us.”
(2 Corinthians 1:3–4 NLT)
Don’t treat the problem lightly or minimize the abuse.
Do realize that verbal and emotional abuse can leave lasting wounds and significant emotional damage.
“The tongue has the power of life and death” (Proverbs 18:21).

Don’t be quick to give simple answers, platitudes, or pat answers.
Do listen intently, ask questions, and seek to understand them.
“Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry” (James 1:19).

Don’t feel like you have to say something or have the right answer.
Do be present with them, and know that just your presence can be a comfort.
“They sat on the ground with him for seven days and nights. No one said a word to Job, for they saw that his suffering was too great for words” (Job 2:13 NLT).

Don’t dismiss their feelings or experience.
Do encourage them, give them compliments, and thank them for their courage to share their thoughts and emotions.
“Let everything you say be good and helpful, so that your words will be an encouragement to those who hear them” (Ephesians 4:29 NLT).

Don’t communicate that the abuse is in some way their fault.
Do express sympathy and compassion.
“Be sympathetic, love one another, be compassionate and humble” (1 Peter 3:8).

Don’t be critical or express judgment toward them.
Do show that you love and accept them.
“Accept one another, then, just as Christ accepted you, in order to bring praise to God” (Romans 15:7).

Don’t assume they are comfortable talking about God and spiritual matters.
Do be sensitive to the leading of the Spirit, and ask if you can share God’s Word with them.
“Let us follow the Spirit’s leading in every part of our lives” (Galatians 5:25 NLT).

Don’t leave them to their own resources.
Do help them find support, resources, and wise counsel in their community, local church, or online to help them heal and recover.
“Plans fail for lack of counsel, but with many advisers they succeed” (Proverbs 15:22).

Don’t overextend yourself or offer to help in ways you cannot provide.
Do recognize your limits and know when you need to point them to additional help or professional counseling.
“Do not think of yourself more highly than you ought, but rather think of yourself with sober judgment” (Romans 12:3).
Don’t forget to pray for them and with them, as they are comfortable doing so.
Do lift them up before the Lord on a regular basis.

“Pray in the Spirit on all occasions with all kinds of prayers and requests. With this in mind, be alert and always keep on praying for all the Lord’s people” ( Ephesians 6:18).

What Is God’s Heart on Depression?

The pressures and stresses of life often weigh us down. When our hearts are heavy and our heads are low, the clouds of depression seem to block out any ray of hope. But even in our depression, God walks with us, carries our burdens, and shines the light of His Word on our despair.

“The Lord is God, and he has made his light shine on us.”
(Psalm 118:27)

God is with us in our depression.

“Do not fear, for I am with you; do not be dismayed, for I am your God. I will strengthen you and help you; I will uphold you with my righteous right hand” (Isaiah 41:10).

God sees our pain and suffering.

“God, see the trouble of the afflicted; you consider their grief and take it in hand” (Psalm 10:14).

God hears our cries and listens to us in our pain.

“...the Lord has heard my weeping” (Psalm 6:8).

God wants to give us light in our darkness.

“It is you who light my lamp; the Lord my God lightens my darkness” (Psalm 18:28 ESV).

God wants to lift us up when we’re feeling down.

“The Lord upholds all who fall and lifts up all who are bowed down” (Psalm 145:14).

God wants us to talk to Him when we’re depressed.

“Trust in him at all times, you people; pour out your hearts to him, for God is our refuge” (Psalm 62:8).

God wants to comfort us.

“I, yes I, am the one who comforts you” (Isaiah 51:12).

God wants to give us peace.

“Peace I leave with you; my peace I give you. I do not give to you as the world gives. Do not let your hearts be troubled and do not be afraid” (John 14:27).

God wants to give us hope.

“For I know the plans I have for you,” declares the Lord, “plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future” (Jeremiah 29:11).
God wants us to trust Him.
“The LORD is my strength and my shield; my heart trusts in him, and he helps me” (Psalm 28:7).

God wants us to comfort others who are depressed.
“The Father of compassion and the God of all comfort . . . comforts us in all our troubles, so that we can comfort those in any trouble with the comfort we ourselves receive from God” (2 Corinthians 1:3–4).

God will one day wipe away all our tears—and there will be no more sorrow or suffering.
“He will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there will be no more death or sorrow or crying or pain. All these things are gone forever” (Revelation 21:4 NLT).

Symptoms of Depression

The American Psychiatric Association’s (APA) Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, 5th ed. (DSM-5) lists nine key symptoms of depression. It says that a person must have at least five of the following symptoms, lasting two weeks or longer, to be considered a major depressive episode. At least one of the five symptoms must be either persistent sadness or loss of interest.

- Persistent feelings of sadness, anxiousness, or “emptiness” most or all of the time
- Complete or near complete loss of interest or pleasure in activities that were once enjoyable
- Significant change in appetite or weight
- Difficulty sleeping most nights or sleeping too much
- Agitated thoughts and movements (i.e., fidgeting, pacing, tapping fingers or feet) or slowed responses (i.e., pausing more when talking; speaking slower, more quietly, or infrequently; moving slowly)
- Chronically fatigued, easily decreased energy
- Feelings of worthlessness or disappointment in oneself
- Lack of concentration, focus, memory retention, or inability to make decisions
- Recurring thoughts of death or suicide or suicide attempts

Instead of diagnosing yourself with depression, first consult a mental health professional (psychiatrist, psychologist, licensed professional counselor) who can give you an educated assessment after conducting a detailed analysis of your situation and symptoms. There is no shame in reaching out for help.

The psalmist, by his own admission, reminds us just how necessary it is to admit our need for help—first to God . . . then also to others.

“Be gracious to me, O LORD, for I am languishing; heal me, O LORD, for my bones are troubled.
My soul also is greatly troubled.
But you, O LORD—how long?
Turn, O LORD, deliver my life; save me for the sake of your steadfast love.”
(Psalm 6:2–4 ESV)
My Personalized Plan to Manage Depression and Live with Hope

Depression can hide the light of day from my view and leave me in the darkness of despair. A sense of hopelessness lingers. But amidst the heaviness and dark clouds of depression, God wants to lift my heavy heart and show me there is hope.

“There is surely a future hope for you, and your hope will not be cut off.”
(Proverbs 23:18)

Because depression can impact every area of my life, I must address it from multiple angles. As I walk through the darkness of depression into the light of dawn, I will . . .

Recognize that my depression is real.
— I will acknowledge my feelings of sadness, anger, hopelessness, and other overwhelming emotions.
— I will not live in denial about my depression but will educate myself about depression and seek help to move forward.

“I am suffering and in pain. Rescue me, O God, by your saving power” (Psalm 69:29 NLT).

Remember that my pain is temporary.
— I will put my pain in perspective and acknowledge that God can help me.
— I will remember that God will one day put an end to all pain and suffering.

“He will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there will be no more death or sorrow or crying or pain. All these things are gone forever” (Revelation 21:4 NLT).

Reaffirm the importance of caring for my physical needs.
— I will talk with my doctor about my depression and get regular medical check-ups.
— I will eat nutritious meals, get adequate sleep each night, and exercise regularly.

“Physical training is of some value, but godliness has value for all things, holding promise for both the present life and the life to come” (1 Timothy 4:8).
Restrict the amount of stress in my life.
— I will identify the environmental or situational factors related to my depression, such as difficult life events, losses I’ve experienced, and the various sources of stress in my life.
— I will seek to adjust to stressful life events and deal with my losses in a healthy, productive manner.
“Give me relief from my distress; have mercy on me and hear my prayer” (Psalm 4:1).

Reveal my emotional needs.
— I will talk with a trusted friend or family member, counselor, and especially with God about my emotions.
— I will honestly confront my feelings and process them with God’s help.
“I call to you, Lord, every day; I spread out my hands to you” (Psalm 88:9).

Restrain negative thought patterns.
— I will acknowledge negative self-talk and lies I believe about myself or my situation.
— I will replace negative thoughts with God’s truth by meditating on His Word.
“Whatever is true, whatever is noble, whatever is right, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is admirable—if anything is excellent or praiseworthy—think about such things” (Philippians 4:8).

Renew my commitment to get my spiritual needs met.
— I will cultivate my relationship with God through reflective prayer and Bible reading.
— I will attend church regularly to receive encouragement from God’s Word and to be with other believers.
“All the believers devoted themselves to the apostles’ teaching, and to fellowship, and to sharing in meals (including the Lord’s Supper), and to prayer” (Acts 2:42 NLT).

How to Help a Depressed Loved One

When you have depressed loved ones in your life, you want to do something that will make a difference, but the question is what?

First and foremost, do not avoid them. Because of the tendency to withdraw and isolate, help them get involved in activities whenever they are open to doing so. Encourage them to find a new hobby. Realize, you may be their only lifeline of hope, and they need to stay connected. Do what you wish someone would do for you if you were struggling with depression.

“Do to others as you would have them do to you.”
(Luke 6:31)
12 Things You Can Do to Help

Learn all you can about depression.
Read books, watch videos, attend conferences, visit websites such as the National Institute of Mental Health (www.nimh.nih.gov).
“Apply your heart to instruction and your ears to words of knowledge” (Proverbs 23:12).

Be an accountability partner.
Communicate both with words and actions, “I’m with you in this, and I won’t abandon you.”
“I have no one else like Timothy, who genuinely cares about your welfare” (Philippians 2:20 nlt).

Initiate regular dialogue.
Send frequent text messages and phone calls. Make intentional contact and encourage them sincerely and often.
“Let everything you say be good and helpful, so that your words will be an encouragement to those who hear them” (Ephesians 4:29 nlt).

Listen to their pain.
Take time to hear their story and let them share their feelings without fear of judgment. Listening affirms their value and helps them process their emotions and circumstances.
“Everyone should be quick to listen, slow to speak and slow to become angry” (James 1:19).

Talk about depression
Talking about depression helps remove the stigma of it.
“A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in a setting of silver” (Proverbs 25:11 esv).

Help them find a support group.
There is strength in numbers. Inquire at a nearby hospital, local church, or search the web for listings of support groups in the community dealing with depression or mental illness.
“Two people are better off than one, for they can help each other succeed. If one person falls, the other can reach out and help” (Ecclesiastes 4:9–10 nlt).

Realize the power of touch.
As appropriate, a hand on the shoulder or a hug can be a great comfort.
“Greet one another with a kiss of love” (1 Peter 5:14).

Play inspirational music when you’re with them.
Music is therapeutic and can lift their spirit.
“... speaking to one another with psalms, hymns and songs from the Spirit” (Ephesians 5:19).

Bring laughter into their lives.
Share funny cards, pictures, stories, videos, or movies.
“A cheerful heart is good medicine” (Proverbs 17:22).
Work with them to set small, daily goals.
Encourage them to set and achieve small goals that require minimal effort. Check on their progress regularly.
“The desires of the diligent are fully satisfied” (Proverbs 13:4).

Enlist help from other family and friends.
Be specific about your concerns and engage others in caring for the one depressed.
“Carry each other's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ” (Galatians 6:2).

Take all threats of suicide seriously.
If suicide is a concern, ask, “Are you thinking about hurting yourself or taking your life?” While asking this may create some discomfort, awkwardness, or make them initially upset—it is worth the risk. Don't shy away from the hard questions, but always ask them in a kind and gentle way.
“A prudent person foresees danger and takes precautions” (Proverbs 27:12 NLT).

How to Respond to Suicidal Thoughts or Threats

What Is God’s Heart on Forgiveness?

The thought of forgiving the person who hurt you (or your loved ones) can seem unthinkable, unfair, and unequivocally wrong. For many, the pain is just too real. However, forgiveness is at the heart of God’s character. It’s why Jesus came. And it’s at the heart of healing, growth, and freedom.

Choosing to forgive is not about letting the other person “off the hook” or ignoring the pain and damage that’s been done. It’s about walking in God’s grace, living in freedom, and moving forward with hope.

A good way to think about forgiveness is to imagine letting go of the offense by releasing your offender. When you don’t forgive, it’s like holding on to bitterness, holding on to the pain, and holding on to the offender. When you forgive, you release your resentment, your pain, and your offender into the hands of God.

Forgiveness is difficult, but it is possible by God’s grace. His grace helps you heal from past wounds and empowers you to forgive. So when you find yourself struggling to forgive, reflect on God’s grace and He will help you walk in the freedom of forgiveness.

“Let us then approach God’s throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need.” (Hebrews 4:16)

God wants us to forgive each other because He has forgiven us.
“Be kind and compassionate to one another, forgiving each other, just as in Christ God forgave you” (Ephesians 4:32).

God wants us to forgive others in the same way He forgives us.
“Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you” (Colossians 3:13).

God wants us to see unforgiveness as sin.
“If anyone, then, knows the good they ought to do and doesn’t do it, it is sin for them” (James 4:17).

God wants us to get rid of unforgiveness and have a heart of mercy.
“Blessed are the merciful, for they will be shown mercy” (Matthew 5:7).

God wants us to do our part to live in peace with everyone.
“If it is possible, as far as it depends on you, live at peace with everyone” (Romans 12:18).
God wants us to overcome evil with good. "Do not be overcome by evil, but overcome evil with good" (Romans 12:21).

God wants us to be ministers of reconciliation. "God . . . reconciled us to himself through Christ and gave us the ministry of reconciliation: that God was reconciling the world to himself in Christ, not counting people’s sins against them. And he has committed to us the message of reconciliation" (2 Corinthians 5:18–19).

God wants us to forgive others so we will not become bitter. "See to it that no one falls short of the grace of God and that no bitter root grows up to cause trouble and defile many" (Hebrews 12:15).

God wants us to forgive others so we will accurately reflect the character of Jesus. "Follow God’s example, therefore, as dearly loved children and walk in the way of love, just as Christ loved us and gave himself up for us as a fragrant offering and sacrifice to God" (Ephesians 5:1–2).

What Is Forgiveness Not?

Misconceptions abound when the word forgiveness is mentioned. Some think forgiveness is the equivalent of excusing sin, saying that what was wrong is now right. Yet this is not the example of forgiveness Jesus displayed. When He encountered the mob of men eager to stone a woman caught in adultery, He chose not to stone her. However, neither did He excuse her sin. Instead, He said, "Go, and sin no more" (John 8:11 KJV). To help correct any confusion about what forgiveness is, you need to know what forgiveness is not!

"Let the wise listen and add to their learning, and let the discerning get guidance.” (Proverbs 1:5)

Forgiveness is not circumventing God's justice.

— It is allowing God to execute His justice in His time and in His way.

Forgiveness is not waiting for “time to heal all wounds.”

— It is clear that time doesn’t always heal wounds; some people will not allow healing.

Forgiveness is not letting the guilty “off the hook.”

— It is moving the guilty from your hook to God's hook.

Forgiveness is not the same as reconciliation.

— It takes two to reconcile, but it takes only one to forgive.

Forgiveness is not excusing wrong behavior.

— It is acknowledging that wrong behavior is without excuse, while still forgiving.

Forgiveness is not explaining away the hurt.

— It is working through the hurt.
Forgiveness is not based on what is fair.
— It was not “fair” for Jesus to hang on the cross—but He did so that we could be forgiven.

Forgiveness is not being weak.
— It is being strong enough to be Christlike.

Forgiveness is not stuffing your anger.
— It is resolving your anger by releasing the offense to God.

Forgiveness is not a natural response.
— It is a supernatural response, empowered by God.

Forgiveness is not denying the hurt.
— It is feeling the hurt and releasing it to God.

Forgiveness is not being a doormat.
— It is seeing that, if this were so, Jesus would have been the greatest “doormat” of all!

Forgiveness is not conditional.
— It is unconditional, a mandate from God to everyone.

Forgiveness is not forgetting.
— It is necessary to remember before you can forgive.

 Forgiveness is not a feeling.
— It is a choice—an act of the will.

---

Is Forgiveness the Same as Reconciliation?

No. Forgiveness is not the same as reconciliation. Forgiveness focuses on the offense; reconciliation focuses on the relationship. Forgiveness requires no relationship. However, reconciliation requires a relationship in which two people, in agreement, are walking together toward the same goal. The Bible says . . .

“Do two walk together unless they have agreed to do so?”
(Amos 3:3)

Forgiveness can take place with only one person.
— Reconciliation requires at least two people.

Forgiveness is directed one-way.
— Reconciliation is reciprocal, occurring two ways.

Forgiveness is a decision to release the offender.
— Reconciliation is the effort to rejoin the offender.
Forgiveness involves a change in thinking about the offender.
— Reconciliation involves a change in behavior by the offender.

Forgiveness is a free gift to the one who has broken trust.
— Reconciliation is a restored relationship based on restored trust.

Forgiveness is extended even if it is never, ever earned.
— Reconciliation is offered to the offender because it has been earned.

Forgiveness is unconditional, regardless of a lack of repentance.
— Reconciliation is conditional, based on repentance.

Key Verse to Memorize

“Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you.”
(Colossians 3:13)

Key Passage to Read

Matthew 18:23–35

What Are the Four Stages of Forgiveness?

Have you ever noticed that the word forgiveness has the word give in it? When you choose to forgive, you give someone a gift—the gift of freedom from having to pay the penalty for offending you, the gift of dismissing the debt owed to you. Because this can be a difficult gift to give, you may need to travel through four stages of forgiveness. Realize that you are also giving yourself a gift—the gift of grudge-free living. That is true freedom.

“Do not seek revenge or bear a grudge against anyone among your people, but love your neighbor as yourself.”
(Leviticus 19:18)
1. Face the Offense.

When you feel pain that is personal, unfair, and deep, you have a wound that can be healed only by forgiving the one who wounded you. First you must face the truth of what has actually been done and not hinder true healing by rationalizing or focusing on false thinking.

— Don’t minimize the offense by thinking: “No matter how badly he treats me, it’s okay.”

  Truth: Bad treatment is not okay. There is no excuse for bad treatment of any kind—any time.

  “Have nothing to do with the fruitless deeds of darkness, but rather expose them” (Ephesians 5:11).

— Don’t excuse the offender’s behavior by thinking: “He doesn’t mean to hurt me. I shouldn’t feel upset with him—he’s a member of my family!”

  Truth: No matter the age of the offender or our relationship, we need to call sin “sin.” We need to face the truth instead of trying to change it. There must first be a guilty party in order to have someone to forgive.

  “Whoever says to the guilty, ‘You are innocent,’ will be cursed by peoples” (Proverbs 24:24).

— Don’t assume that quick forgiveness is full forgiveness by thinking: “As soon as that horrendous ordeal occurred, I quickly and fully forgave him. That’s what I’ve been taught to do.”

  Truth: Many well-intentioned people feel guilty if they don’t extend immediate forgiveness so they “forgive” quickly. Yet they have neither faced the full impact of the offense nor grieved over what actually happened.

  Rarely is the full impact of sin felt at the moment it occurs. Rather, its impact is felt at different levels over a period of time. Therefore, forgiveness needs to be extended at each of these levels.

  “Quick forgiveness” over deep hurts may seem sufficient, but it may not be “full forgiveness”—not until it has been extended at each level of impact. Before complete forgiveness can be extended, you must face the truth about the gravity of the offense and its extended impact on you.

  “You [God] desired faithfulness even in the womb; you taught me wisdom in that secret place” (Psalm 51:6).

2. Feel the Offense.

We usually do not hate strangers or acquaintances; we just get angry with them when we think we’ve been wronged by them. But author and theologian Lewis Smedes writes, “When a person destroys what our commitment and our intimacy created, something precious is destroyed.” Then anger or even hatred may be our true feeling in response to deep, unfair pain. Hatred toward an offender needs to be brought up out of the basement of our souls and dealt with. However, not all hatred is wrong. For example, God hates evil, and we should too.

“There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens . . . a time to love and a time to hate” (Ecclesiastes 3:1, 8).

Failing to feel the offense results in . . .

— Denying your pain: “I don’t blame her for always criticizing me. She is under a lot of pressure. And besides, it doesn’t hurt me.”

  Truth: Being mistreated by someone you love is painful. Feeling the pain must take place before healing can occur.

  “The Lord is close to the brokenhearted and saves those who are crushed in spirit” (Psalm 34:18).

— Carrying false guilt: “I feel guilty if I hate what was done to me. I’m never supposed to have hatred.”

  Truth: God hates sin. You, too, can hate sin. You are to hate the sin but not the sinner.

  “To fear the Lord is to hate evil; I hate pride and arrogance, evil behavior and perverse speech” (Proverbs 8:13).
3. Forgive the Offender.

“To err is human, to forgive, divine.” This famous quote by English poet Alexander Pope is a heavenly reminder to all of us. However, the earthly reality is more like this: “To err is human, to blame it on someone else is more human!”

Oh, how much easier it is to blame than to forgive. But we are called by God to forgive! When you do forgive, genuine forgiveness draws you into the heart of God, and your life takes on the divine character of Christ.

— Argument: “I don’t think it is right to forgive when I don’t feel like forgiving.”

Answer: Forgiveness is not a feeling, but is rather an act of the will—a choice. Jesus established what was right when He said . . .

“When you stand praying, if you hold anything against anyone, forgive them, so that your Father in heaven may forgive you your sins” (Mark 11:25).

— Argument: “I can forgive everyone else, but I don’t have the power to forgive that person.”

Answer: The issue is not your lack of power to forgive, but rather how strong God’s power is within you to forgive any sin committed against you.

“His divine power has given us everything we need for a godly life through our knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and goodness” (2 Peter 1:3).

— Argument: “Forgiveness isn’t fair. She ought to pay for what she did!”

Answer: God knows how to deal with each person fairly—and He will, in His own time.

“Do not take revenge, my dear friends, but leave room for God’s wrath, for it is written: ‘It is mine to avenge; I will repay,’ says the Lord” (Romans 12:19).

— Argument: “I have forgiven, but it doesn’t do any good. He keeps doing the same thing over and over.”

Answer: You cannot control what others do, but you can control how you respond to what others do. Jesus said you are to respond with forgiveness no matter the number of times wronged. The apostle Peter asked Jesus, “‘Lord, how many times shall I forgive my brother or sister who sins against me? Up to seven times?’ Jesus answered, ‘I tell you, not seven times, but seventy-seven times’” (Matthew 18:21–22).

— Argument: “I cannot forgive and forget. I keep thinking about being hurt.”

Answer: When you choose to forgive, you don’t get a case of “holy amnesia.” However, after facing the hurt and confronting the offender, close off your mind to rehearsing the pain of the past. Forget about your pain by refusing to focus on your hurt.

“I do not consider myself yet to have taken hold of it. But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward in Christ Jesus” (Philippians 3:13–14).

4. Find Oneness—if Appropriate.

Relationships filled with resentment ultimately perish. Relationships filled with forgiveness ultimately prevail. However, reconciliation in a relationship—the restoration of oneness—is contingent on several vital factors. When these conditions are met, and when both parties are committed to honesty in the relationship, there is real hope that the two can be of one mind and one heart again. The Bible says . . .

“If you have any encouragement from being united with Christ, if any comfort from his love, if any common sharing in the Spirit, if any tenderness and compassion, then make my joy complete by being like-minded, having the same love, being one in spirit and of one mind” (Philippians 2:1–2).
Note: Situations where reconciliation is not appropriate include: a physically abusive relationship, an adulterous affair, rape, murder, or even spiritual abuse. For some offenses, reconciliation may not be wise or safe. In these instances, seek God’s direction in the decisions you make beyond forgiveness by reading His Word, praying, and talking with a pastor, counselor, or trusted Christian friend about the situation and how best to proceed.

How to Truly Forgive

Have you ever said, “I was severely wronged by someone I once trusted. People tell me I should forgive, but how can I simply let my offender off the hook?” If these words have passed your lips or even crossed your mind, be assured that you are not alone. That is precisely why you need to know how to handle “the hook.”

How to Handle “The Hook”

Make a list of all the offenses caused by your offender.

Imagine a meat hook hanging around your neck and a burlap bag hanging from the hook, laying against your chest. Then imagine all the pain caused by the offenses represented as 100 pounds of rocks dropped into the burlap bag. Now you have 100 pounds of heavy rocks—rocks of resentment—hanging from the hook around your neck.

Ask yourself: “Do I really want to carry all this pain with me for the rest of my life?”

Are you willing to take the pain from the past and release it into the hands of the Lord? If so, lift up your pain and release it all to Jesus.

Visualize taking the one who hurt or offended you off of your “emotional hook” and placing that person onto God’s hook.

Remember, the Lord knows how to deal with your offender in His time and in His way. God says, “It is mine to avenge; I will repay” (Romans 12:19).

Finally, use the following model and pray to release your offender to God.
Prayer to Forgive Your Offender

“Lord Jesus, thank you for caring about how much my heart has been hurt.
You know the pain I have felt because of (list every offense).
Right now I release all that pain into your hands.
Thank you, Lord, for dying on the cross for me and extending your forgiveness to me.
As an act of my will, I choose to forgive (name).
Right now, I move (name) off of my emotional hook to your hook.
I refuse all thoughts of revenge.
I trust that in your time and in your way you will deal with (name) as you see fit.
And Lord, thank you for giving me your power to forgive so that I can be set free.
In your precious name I pray. Amen.”

Genuine Forgiveness

Question: “How do I know whether I have genuinely forgiven someone?”

Answer: Over time, as you go through the process of forgiveness, you may find old thoughts and feelings resurfacing. You may wonder if you’ve really forgiven your offender. It’s completely normal. Ask yourself the following questions:

— “Do I still expect my offender 'to pay' for the wrong done to me?”
— “Do I still have bitter feelings toward my offender?”
— “Do I still have vengeful thoughts toward my offender?”
— “Do I desire that my offender will one day come to have a saving relationship with Jesus Christ and experience a changed life?”
— “When is the last time I prayed for my offender?”

Remember, forgiving someone does not in any way mean that you do not want justice. It simply means that you are leaving the offense entirely in God's hands. You are refusing to harbor hateful feelings toward your offender. Forgiveness is an ongoing process which requires that you choose to forgive every time the offense comes to mind. Likewise, you choose to pray for the offender every time the offense crosses your mind.

“Pray for those who hurt you.”

(Luke 6:28 nlt)
4 POINTS OF GOD’S PLAN

Whether you’re trying to make sense of your past, trying to overcome something in the present, or trying to make changes for a better future, the Lord cares about you. He loves you. No matter what challenges you or your loved ones are facing, no matter the pain or difficult feelings you may be experiencing, no matter what you’ve done or what’s been done to you, there is hope. And that hope is found in Jesus Christ.

God has a plan for your life, and it begins with a personal relationship with Jesus. The most important decision you can ever make is whether you will accept His invitation. If you have never made that decision, these four simple truths can help you start your journey together with Him.

“For I know the plans I have for you,’ declares the Lord, ‘plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future.’”
(Jeremiah 29:11)

God’s Purpose for You: Salvation

What was God’s motivation in sending Jesus Christ to earth? To express His love for you by saving you! The Bible says, “God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life. For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but to save the world through him” (John 3:16–17).

What was Jesus’ purpose in coming to earth? To forgive your sins, to empower you to have victory over sin, and to enable you to live a fulfilled life! Jesus said, “I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full” (John 10:10).

The Problem: Sin

What exactly is sin? Sin is living independently of God’s standard—knowing what is wrong and doing it anyway—also knowing what is right and choosing not to do it. The apostle Paul said, “I know that nothing good lives in me, that is, in my sinful nature. I want to do what is right, but I can’t. I want to do what is good, but I don’t. I don’t want to do what is wrong, but I do it anyway” (Romans 7:18–19 NLT).

What is the major consequence of sin? Spiritual death, eternal separation from God. The Bible says, “Your iniquities [sins] have separated you from your God” (Isaiah 59:2). Scripture also says, “The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord” (Romans 6:23).

God’s Provision for You: The Savior

Can anything remove the penalty for sin? Yes! Jesus died on the cross to personally pay the penalty for your sins. The Bible says, “God demonstrates his own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us” (Romans 5:8).

What is the solution to being separated from God? Belief in (entrusting your life to) Jesus Christ as the only way to God the Father. Jesus said, “I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me” (John 14:6). The Bible says, “Believe in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved . . .” (Acts 16:31).
Your Part: Surrender

Give Christ control of your life, entrusting yourself to Him. Jesus said, “Whoever wants to be my disciple must deny themselves and take up their cross and follow me. For whoever wants to save their life will lose it, but whoever loses their life for me will find it. What good will it be for someone to gain the whole world, yet forfeit their soul?” (Matthew 16:24–26).

Place your faith in (rely on) Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior and reject your “good works” as a means of earning God’s approval. The Bible says, “It is by grace you have been saved, through faith—and this is not from yourselves, it is the gift of God—not by works, so that no one can boast” (Ephesians 2:8–9).

Has there been a time in your life when you know you’ve humbled your heart and received Jesus Christ as your personal Lord and Savior—giving Him control of your life? You can tell God that you want to surrender your life to Christ in a simple, heartfelt prayer like this:

“God, I want a real relationship with you. I admit that many times I’ve chosen to go my own way instead of your way. Please forgive me for my sins. Jesus, thank you for dying on the cross to pay the penalty for my sins. Come into my life to be my Lord and my Savior. Change me from the inside out and make me the person you created me to be. In your holy name I pray. Amen.”

What Can You Now Expect?

When you surrender your life to Christ, you receive the Holy Spirit who empowers you to live a life pleasing to God. The Bible says, “His divine power has given us everything we need for a godly life . . .” (2 Peter 1:5). Jesus assures those who believe with these words:

“Truly I tell you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life and will not be judged but has crossed over from death to life.”

(John 5:24)
God gives us His Word not just for information but for transformation. The Lord wants you to “be transformed by the renewing of your mind” (Romans 12:2). This isn’t something you do alone, but something God does in you by His Spirit.

The following questions are designed to help you reflect on the biblical truths in this resource. Take a moment to pray and ask God to settle your mind and quiet your spirit as you reflect on His truth.

“What are two key truths, Bible verses, or “takeaways” from this resource that you found helpful—or that you simply needed to be reminded of?

What might your life look like a few years from now if you do not make changes regarding these issues? How might your life be different if you do make changes?

Is there anyone in your life who needs help with these topics/issues? How can you pray for them, and what is one thing you can do to encourage them?

What can you give thanks to God for today?

“Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself and God our Father, who loved us and by his grace gave us eternal comfort and a wonderful hope, comfort you and strengthen you in every good thing you do and say.”

(2 Thessalonians 2:16–17 NLT)
